Update Your State – Dillon’s Law

Epinephrine training and certification is approved in most states but these laws typically restrict use to a workplace. Because of this an individual cannot use epinephrine to help someone in need at their family reunion, state fair, local sporting event, or on a camping trip where access to Epinephrine may be limited or delayed.

Angel & George Mueller became personally aware of this when they tragically lost their son, Dillon, due to a fatal bee sting:

“Our 18-year-old son, Dillon, died from a bee sting. No one had epinephrine – not even the first responders. Osteopathic Physicians helped drive support for Dillon’s Law. Now any individual in Wisconsin & Minnesota who takes an anaphylaxis training course can obtain and use an epinephrine injector. This law will not bring back our son but it may help save someone you love. Please Update your State!” - Angel Mueller

In memory of Dillon, the Mueller family created the Dillon Mueller Memorial Fund (epifordilly.com). These funds are designated for two main goals:

- Dillon’s Law: We advocate for the passage of Dillon’s Law in state legislatures across the country. This law allows any individual to be trained, carry, and use an epinephrine injector to save someone having a severe allergic reaction (anaphylaxis).
- Anaphylaxis Training: We offer the ‘Do it for Dillon’ Anaphylaxis Training Program to promote access to life-saving epinephrine. This is a state approved program that trains individuals on appropriate use and administration of epinephrine to save a person suffering from anaphylaxis.

To date Dillon’s Law has passed with 100% bipartisan support in Wisconsin (2017 Act 133) and Minnesota (2019 S.F. No 1257). Please consider partnering with us to encourage your state legislator to ‘Update Your State’.

How you can help:

- Connect us with your state legislator to encourage them to update your state’s epinephrine laws
- Contact us to offer a ‘Do It For Dillon’ Anaphylaxis Training Course in your community
- Donate to support our efforts by mail or online at epifordilly.com
